SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS MEET

Adopt Standards for the Coming Year. Decide on Dates for Convention. Committees Appointed and Other Business.

The officers of the Adams County Sabbath School Association met Thursday afternoon at the Pitzer House, and transacted business of importance.

It was decided to hold the annual county convention at Biglerville on August 21st and 22nd. The following committee was appointed to prepare the program for the convention. E. P. Miller, Rev. F. E. Taylor and Rev. C. F. Floto.

The Sunday School Year Book published by this association for the past two years has been found to be very helpful in the work and will be published again this year by the following committee: H. E. Bair, Lily Dougherty, G. H. Knoose, L. M. Alleman and Wilson Bream.

The Third District superintendent, Mr. Wintrose, reported a series of conferences being arranged for, to be held in different parts of the district, to discuss the various phases of the Sunday School work. The Second District president, Mr. Rife, reported plans for work in his district, and a convention in the near future. Several of the districts are planning tours throughout the district, visiting each school, and presenting the various phases of organized Sunday School work.

Miss Myrtle Watkins, Biglerville, was elected superintendent of the Secondary Division Department in place of Miss Bess Raffensperger, resigned.

One of the lines of work taken up by the State Association this year is 100,000 accessions to the churches through the Sunday Schools. In apportioning this number to the counties, Adams County's quota is 1375. All the Sunday Schools in the county are to take up this work of evangelization in a systematic way and the pastors are requested to report from time to time throughout the year to the county officers the number of accessions to their churches, so that this can be reported to the state at the proper time.

Three new departments of work have been taken up recently by the county organization; temperance work, under the supervision of Mr. Arthur Griest; missionary work by Miss Nettie Swartz and the Secondary Division work which is the organization of the boys and girls in the "teen" age. Information in regard to any of these lines of work may be had by writing to the respective department superintendents.

Three years ago Adams County attained the highest standard in Sunday School work set by the State Association and have held that position for the three years, and so they adopted the Advanced Standard for the county, which has been prepared by the State Association. Following is the New Advanced Standard:

County completely organized by districts, annual conventions in each district and county, statistics gathered annually and sent to the state office, pledge made to the state association and paid, county represented at state convention, 75 per cent. of schools with cradle rolls, 40 per cent. of schools with home departments, 25 per cent. of schools with teacher training classes, 50 per cent. of schools with O. A. B. classes, 25 per cent. of schools Front Line.

The following advanced standard for local schools was also adopted:

Schools open all the year, cradle roll and home departments, one or more registered Secondary or O. A. B. classes, graded instruction, a qualified Teacher Training class (A class taking at least one examination a year), definite missionary and temperance instruction, definite decisions for Christ urged, pledge made and paid for county work, statistics sent to county or district secretary when called for, and representation at County or District Convention, monthly workers' meetings. (10 months). This is not to take the place of the Front Line Standard, but is to be an incentive for additional activity in the schools and all superintendents are urged to bring their schools up to this standard if possible.

The officers of Adams County Sabbath School Association are: president, E. P. Miller, Gettysburg; vice presidents, Rev. F. E. Taylor, Gettysburg, Charles Rife, Orrtanna, H. W. Swartz, Littlestown, A. B. Trimmer, East Berlin, M. L. Power, Bermudian, Cecil Stover, Arendtsville; corresponding secretary, Lily Dougherty, Gettysburg; recording secretary, Miss Rhea March, Abbottstown; treasurer, I. C. Bucher, Bendersville; elementary superintendent, H. F. Stambaugh, Abbottstown; secondary division superintendent, Miss Myrtle Watkins, Biglerville; O. A. B. class superintendent,

EXPERIENCES IN WESTERN FLOODS

Cletus Deardorff and Rev. D. Frank Garland Tell of Experiences at Dayton. Saw People Escaping on Telephone Wires.

One of the most interesting accounts of the recent flood at Dayton has come in a letter from Cletus Deardorff, son of William Deardorff, of Mummaburg, who is employed at the plant of the National Cash Register Company and who witnessed many exciting scenes during the progress of the high waters. Mr. Deardorff went to the down-town district when he heard of the calamity and tells his experiences as follows:

"We watched the people leave their houses by wading in water waist-deep and others by boating. The half or more stayed in their houses and we stayed until the rising water caused us to go back. In a half hour it went up at least five feet and we went to another place where they were rescuing families from their homes.

Houses commenced coming down the street, breaking telephone poles and wires and carrying everything along down stream. I saw people standing on the roofs of houses, waving and shouting for help. With some families the father shot the whole family and then killed himself to get out of the misery. It was impossible to save them on account of the awful current.

"At four o'clock houses were on fire which started from an explosion. It swept every house as it went. Then it caught some in the middle of the street and crossed to the other side. While the fire was burning I saw about eight men and three women walk telephone wires to save themselves. It was their only salvation and no one could help them. One man crawled the wires with a baby in a bag on his back. One of the girls fell and caught herself with her hands over her head and hung there only three telephone poles from us. I wouldn't have given a cent for her life but she 'handed it' it back six feet to the pole and rested up after which she made another attempt and succeeded but fainted when she reached the ground.

"Oh, it was something awful to witness such a scene as that and then the fire crossed the street and the people just disappeared—either burned or drowned.

"On Wednesday I worked on the National Cash Register ambulance and helped to haul all kinds and classes of people to the factory and hospital. We rescued all we could that day but thousands were suffering and could not be helped. Evening was coming and there was lightning. We could smell gas escaping somewhere from one of the gas plants. If it had caught fire the whole city would have gone up. On Thursday morning it was snowing and the sufferers were nearly freezing to death but the water was falling fast. That morning I joined the National Cash Register police force and am still doing duty from six to six. One of God's blessings is that there are lots of good people in the world to send us provisions and clothes for the homeless and it is coming in by trainloads."

A letter has been received from Rev. Dr. D. Frank Garland, of Dayton, who is widely known here. He says among other things:

"It was terrible, beyond imagination, my home is in one of the worst flooded sections. We had 30 minutes to get to second floor. Lost all my fine library—all the gathered data of years—my large accumulation from European study tour. All my furniture on first floor gone to kindling wood, piano and all. The other Lutheran pastors were on higher ground and saved their libraries. My wife and I were alone. My son, Charles, had gone to a party on high ground and we knew he was safe. He got word we were alive on Thursday.

"Friday, after three days and horrible nights, fire, storm and fierce lightning, in total darkness, we left the house and ever since I have been on organization and direction of relief stations in two-thirds of the city. My son, Charles, is clearing the house. I'm trying to help feed others and get relief from my own library loss. Don't care for the rest.

"In it all, J. H. Patterson is the greatest, noblest, wisest and most liberal citizen in Ohio. Without his great organization, his marvelous generalship and generosity, we would be today in an awful plight."

RICH MAN FOUND DEAD ON RAILROAD

Allentown Manufacturer Shot Through Head.

THE POLICE SAY SUICIDE

Members of Family Insist It Was Murder and Note Found on Body Was a Forgery.

Allentown, Pa., April 11.—August Simon, one of the best known residents of Allentown, retired silk manufacturer and rich globe trotter, was found dead on the Lehigh Valley railroad tracks here. His body was badly mangled, and there was a bullet wound in his head.

The police say that a note, found in Simon's pocket, indicated that he had committed suicide. They further say that the retired manufacturer's suicide was not only well planned, but spectacular.

On the other hand, the members of Simon's family insist that he is the victim of a murderer or murderers. They say the note the police found is not in his handwriting, and express the belief that one or more persons shot him on the bridge under which his body was found and threw the body on the railroad. The police are investigating this phase of the case.

The police theory is that to kill himself Simon shot himself in the head while leaning over the railing of the Linden street bridge, spanning the Lehigh Valley railroad. From the effects of this bullet he fell on the railroad tracks forty feet below. Later a train ran over his body.

The note in his pockets told the finders of his body to notify his brother, Charles Simon, one of the owners of the National Silk Dyeing company, at Paterson, N. J., the coroner and an undertaker. Also, that if his family did not want to bother burying him they should send his body to a medical college.

Simon's death was as tragic as his life was dramatic. He was the son of a rich Frenchman, a silk manufacturer. He was born in Alsace-Lorraine, fifty-seven years ago.

More than six feet tall and weighing 250 pounds, he was a combination of soldier of fortune and boulevardier, with a cynical wit which made him a terror to friends and foes alike.

In 1874, as a young French army officer, he was assigned to the Legion in Algiers. He used to tell a tale that, at one time, he was directed to command a small squad of soldiers which was to escort 125 Arab prisoners across the desert. The Arabs revolted on the march, and Simon said, he and his soldiers, to save themselves, had to shoot every one of the 125 Moslem fanatics. He also told marvelous narratives of lion hunts in the desert, and had a number of lion skins in his house as evidences of his prowess.

About 1880, when the silk industry in America began to prosper, he came to this country and accumulated a fortune in the dyeing business, being located at different times in Paterson, Philadelphia, Petersburg, Va., and Allentown. His health began to fail after a six months' trip to France and Algiers, last summer and autumn, and he was further troubled by a liver ailment which he had acquired while in the army, which later was found on the floor of the car.

Simon leaves a wife and several daughters, who are among the leaders of Allentown society.

ANOTHER TITANIC SUIT

Mother of Two Fatherless Waifs Asks $30,000.

New York, April 11.—One of the last suits filed against the White Star line for death claims growing out of the Titanic disaster is that of Mrs. Marie Navratil, of France, mother of the "two Titanic waifs," Momo and Leolo, rescued fatherless and protected by Miss Margaret Hays, of this city. The suit was filed and asks $30,000 for M. Navratil's death.

Because the widow, now in France, is in dire poverty, the Hays family has assisted her financially. "Monday is the anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic and the legal limit of time for filing claims expires then," said Miss Hays. "To enable Mrs. Navratil to begin suit I sent her the necessary money."

Arrested For Alleged Arson.

Mount Holly, N. J., April 11.—What is said to have been an incendiary attempt was made to burn the hotel at Lambert owned by William H. Jennings. Part of the building had been spread with oil and the blaze was started by applying a match to a pile of straw. Cracking of the flames awoke Mrs. Jennings, who aroused the guests, and all escaped in scant attire. Joseph Rogers was arrested and charged with the crime.

THREE CURRENCY

BILLS PRESENTED

Nearly a Dozen Measures Now Before Congress.

Washington, April 11.—New currency reform bills were introduced in the house by Representatives Prouty, of Iowa; Nelson, of Wisconsin, and Palmer, of Pennsylvania.

Congress now has nearly a dozen bills, covering all branches of banking and currency reform, but none of which bear the endorsement of the committees of the two houses or of President Wilson.

Representative Carter Glass, who probably will introduce the measure about which money reform debate will center in the house, conferred with Secretary McAdoo, of the treasury, who has been gathering information from banks upon certain phases of the financial situation. Mr. Glass said that there will be no difference of opinion between himself and the secretary of the treasury over the bill that he will introduce in the house.

Of the bills introduced that of Representative Nelson proposes a national currency board of seven members, with power to issue treasury notes through local "associations of reserve and discount."

That of Representative Prouty would create a new emergency currency, similar to that created by the Aldrich-Vreeland law now in force, but which would be much more accessible for banks in case of emergency.

Representative Palmer's bill, and one introduced earlier in the week by Senator Hoke Smith, would give to banks the right to loan money upon real estate mortgages and conveyances.

A general banking bill has also been introduced by Representative Levy, of New York.

PUTS BAN ON THUG WEAPONS

Bill in Legislature Forbids Their Manufacture or Sale.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 11.—A bill was introduced in the house by Mr. Ambler, of Montgomery, making it a felony for any person to manufacture, sell, give, carry, use or attempt to use against another any blackjack, slung shot, billy, sand club, sand bag, bludgeon, dagger, dirk, dangerous knife or stiletto without a permit from the district attorney of his county.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor to carry a razor with intent to use it against any one; to sell or offer to sell or give to any one under eighteen years of age any of the above weapons, or any gun, revolver, air gun or spring gun.

The penalty for anyone convicted under the bill is made a fine of from $100 to $500 and imprisonment of not more than ten years. The act exempts wholesalers, officers of the law or organizations when parading, or members hereof going to or from parades or meetings.

Another Patient For Friedmann.

Providence, R. I., April 11.—Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann has agreed to treat a friend of Governor Miller, of Delaware, with his tuberculosis vaccine if the patient can be brought to Providence without danger of a relapse. Dr. Friedmann denied that he made any contract, as alleged, with Dr. Albert von Hoffman, of St. Louis, for the disposition of his tuberculosis vaccine.

Boston, Mass., April 11.—Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, of Boston, archdeacon of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, was elected suffragan bishop by the diocesan convention. AN INSOLENT WRITER.

He Found He Couldn't Dictate to a Typical John Bull.

That sprouting Scotch peer, the Earl of Devon, who rebuked a ship news reporter who approached him by declaring that "no gentleman ever speaks to another without an introduction; it simply isn't done," is an old friend of James Francis Dwyer, the Australian novelist—that is, Dwyer doesn't actually know the Earl of Devon, but he knows his sweetly British sort.

"I ought to," said Dwyer. "I was broke in London and I learned to know the true Briton. Once I answered an advertisement for a literary secretary. To make certain that my letter would be read I wired the advertiser as follows:

"Do not engage a literary secretary until you have read my letter of application."

"That letter was a gem. I thought I would land the place with it sure. I was certain of it when a large, square letter directed me to appear at a named address at a given hour. It was a four penny bus ride, but I didn't care. My fortune was opening out before me. I squandered the fourpence without a miserly thought. A pompous butler ushered me into a black oak library, where the original styled model of John Bull sat at a table. I sat down meekly and waited to be spoken to.

"You cannot dictate to an Englishman," said this old image.

"No, sir," I said.

"I tell you, he shouted, 'you cannot dictate to an Englishman!'"

"Certainly not," I said.

"But you tried to, he said. 'You sent me this important telegram. No Englishman would have done that. It was an American trick.'

"I tried to soothe him, for I wanted that job. But he got hotter and hotter. Finally he told me outright that he had hired a young man who once had worked for a lord."

"I have sent for you," said he, "and you should be grateful to me in order to teach you proper respect for the traditions of England and for the British flag."

"You old fossil," said I, "if I had a British flag here I'd tear it in two and choke you to death with it!"—Chicago News

SENATE TO AMEND THE TARIFF BILL

Changes May be Made in Many Schedules.

Washington, April 11.—The senate's attitude toward President Wilson and the new tariff bill became fairly well defined after another meeting of the Democratic members of the finance committee.

Briefly the senate committee will likely agree to accept the view of the president and the house as to free wool and one-cent sugar with the free-in-three-years attachment to the latter; but it will exercise its right to amend other schedules and provisions of the tariff bill as it thinks best.

The conference with the president brought a working agreement, under which both the executive and the senate leaders have yielded certain points. The senate Democrats do not propose to make any general increase in the rates of the tariff bill, or to make the senate liable to the charge of having impeded the efforts of the president and the house toward tariff reform.

Changes will be made in many of the schedules, however, the work having been started with a consideration of the first schedule in the bill. Some of the changes regarded as necessary by the senate leaders may be carried over to the house and put into the bill in the Democratic caucus.

The senate leaders reserve the full right to make changes after the bill reaches the senate, when they consider them necessary to make the tariff revision more equitable and scientific.

The decision to stand with the president upon the wool and sugar tariff issues has brought the various forces of Democratic control into practical unity, it is believed. Should the president and the house majority refuse to accept any change in the wool and sugar provision it is understood that the senate committee will lend its support to the same program.

SUFFRAGIST'S NOSE BROKEN

London, April 11.—Miss Zelle Emerson, the American suffragette, who was released from prison Tuesday, and is now in a nursing home, is reported to be in a serious condition as a result of the forcible feeding to which she was subjected.

It is asserted that she may never completely recover her health. Members of the suffragette jail committee, who saw the girl when she was released from Holloway prison say the results of the treatment will leave a facial disfigurement. Several bones of the nose were broken.

WILSON USED GOLD PASS

Washington, April 11.—President Wilson and party attended the game between Washington and New York, which opened the base ball season here.

For the first time in his official career the chief executive tossed out the ball which set the game in motion. He occupied the president's box and used the gold season pass presented to him by President Ban Johnson, of the American League.

The ball which President Wilson tossed to the players will be photographed by Mr. Wilson and preserved among the trophies of the Washington club.

Wade H. Killifer, an infielder, who arrived with the club, may also be a victim. His face was broken out when he reached Minneapolis, and a physician was consulted. Killifer was told that he was not suffering from the disease, but he will see another doctor.

President Cantillon has ordered an immediate vaccination of all members of the club.

CARMEN GET OFFER TO ARBITRATE STRIKE

Company Wants Service Resumed at Once.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 11.—An early settlement of the strike of the carmen of the International Railway company appeared probable when E. G. Connette, president of the company, announced that he would accept the offer of Mayor Fuhrmann to act as mediator and would recognize the union, providing car service was resumed immediately.

Notwithstanding this move, the advisability of calling a general strike of the 42,000 union men in Buffalo in sympathy with the carmen will be considered at a general meeting of the 119 labor organizations. At a recent meeting the representatives of the labor unions voted to "aid the street car men in every way possible."

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, on the long distance telephone, assured the president of the car men's association that the national federation endorsed the present strike.

A dozen cars were sent out over the Main street route. All were manned by strikebreakers and carried policemen and deputies. One of the cars was met at Glenwood avenue with a shower of bricks and stones. A company of the Sixty-fifth regiment fired over the heads of the crowd and the rioters scattered. A heavy rain kept the people off the streets.

MIDDIES ROW INVESTIGATED

Board Thought to Have Recommended Dismissal For Fighting.

Annapolis, Md., April 11.—The report of a board of investigation, which has been in session at the naval academy in connection with a recent fight between a member of the third and one of the fourth class, has been forwarded through Superintendent G. B. Johns to the navy department.

It was developed that Midshipman James C. Cook, of Arkansas, of the third class, and Midshipman Newbold T. Lawrence, of Michigan, a fourth class man, were the principals. It is understood that a fight followed the lower class man's resentment of some of the treatment which he received from Cook.

Cash Offered Nicholas.

"COOKING A PILL."

That is What Opium Smokers Call "Hitting the Pipe."

The opium smoker in the act of smoking is said to be "cooking a pill." Smokers of tobacco in seeing opium pipes have been misled into the belief that the large bowl of the pipe is filled with opium when really the "pill" is simply pushed over a tiny opening in the cover of the bowl. Heating of the bowl produces dense fumes, which are drawn through the bowl and the stem of the pipe into the smoker's mouth.

Neither does one pipe of opium produce stupor. A "pill" dazes only even an inexperienced smoker as a large drink would effect a person caused to alcohol. The opium users who have been pictured stretched out on bunks of opium dens in utter stupor have been saturated with the drug.

Reclining on a bed, the smoker places the layout within easy reach and lights the lamp. Peanut oil, burning slowly and without evil odors or fumes, is used exclusively. The smoker is then ready to prepare his "pill."

The yew-nok, or dipper, a long, needle shaped instrument, is put into the opium receptacle and turned slowly in the black and sticky substance until a small quantity of opium adheres to the point. It is then placed over the flame of the lamp, and turning the dipper the smoker roasts and cooks the "pill" until it is ready for the pipe.

The tiny speck is then thrust into the opening of the bowl, which, held above the lamp, slowly begins to produce opium fumes, which are drawn in by the smoker through the stem of his pipe. The "pill" lasts only from thirty to forty seconds, and to enjoy another smoke the same preparations have to be repeated.—New York Tribune.

Lamb Stew.

Boil slowly three pounds of lean lamb flank one hour, then add three or four sliced onions and one-half cupful rice and boil with a heaping teaspoonful of sage and summer savory for three-quarters of an hour. Then add a pint of cream of tartar dumplings mixed with three eggs. Boil twelve minutes.

Potato Puffs.

Take any slices or bits of cold meat Chop and season with pepper, salt and cut pickles. Mash potatoes, making them into paste with an egg. Roll, add a dust of flour. Cut round with a saucer. Put the seasoned meat on one half and fold like a puff. Fry or bake a light brown.

Acquiring a Reputation.

Archbishop Howley, who lived in the eighteenth century, most unjustly got the reputation of swearing like a trooper. The explanation is that the Duke of Cumberland, who fought the battle of Culloden and who was unapologetically profane, once went in quest of the primate to get his assistance in defeating a certain bill which he disliked. He returned to the house of lords, saying: "It's all right, my lords. I've seen the archbishop, and he says he'll see the promoters to — before he'll vote for the — bill." As a matter of fact, all the profanity had been supplied quite in the ordinary run of conversation by the duke.

The Kind of Potatoes That Brings the Price When Selling

These potatoes were grown in Franklin County near Mercersburg, by Dr Irving, President of Mercersburg Academy and last season he had an average yield of over 200 bushels of salable potatoes per acre, with over 20 acres planted.

If the potato growers of Adams County will grow a round potato and have just one variety they will realize 10 cents more per bushel, than they are now getting. No buyer can pay the top price for potatoes when each farmer grows several different varieties of both long and round stock.

Our prices are such that you will be justified in planting a large acreage.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Care With Which England's Standards Are Preserved.

Every twenty years government officials compare the current weights and measures with the standards, which are sealed up in the staircase of the house of commons. There are only two standards, the pound weight and the yard measure. The standard pound is of platinum, which despite its weight is no larger than a cubic inch, and small as it is, the metal of which it is composed is worth £40. The standard yard is a bar of bronze thirty-eight inches long, on which a yard has been marked off in thirty-six divisions of an inch. The greatest possible care is taken of these two important articles.

When a comparison is being made they are handled with tongs. The pound weight is weighed in the most delicate of chemical balances, and the yard is measured with a micrometer. When they are done with the pound it is wrapped in a special soft paper and laid in a silver gilt case, which is placed in a bronze case, this being put in a wooden box, afterward screwed down and sealed. The yard measure is placed on eight rollers in a mahogany case, which is carefully sealed. Both cases are then put into a leaden casket, which is sealed by soldering. The packing is not yet finished, however, for the lead case is placed in a strong oak box. When this is screwed down it is placed in the hole in the wall. The wall is built up by a mason, and the standards can only be obtained by demolishing it once more.—London Globe.

The first man who applied to a farmer the other day for a job specified that he wanted $40 a month, a horse and buggy to use when he wanted it and, further, that he wouldn't milk cows. One of the chief sources of revenue on this particular farm was a herd of dairy cows. The upshot of the business was that the would be hired man looked elsewhere for a job. Had the farmer hired him on the terms outlined he would likely have been under the necessity before long of asking his hired man for permission to stay overnight.

TESTING GRASS SEED.

A simple way to test one's own grass seed is to take a good sized plate and on this lay a piece of blotting paper or muslin. One should then count out on this 100 seeds of the grass seed to be tested. Directly over the seed lay another piece of muslin. The cloth should then be moistened and the testing outfit given a covering, preferably another good sized plate. The seed should be kept moist during the germinating period, which is about five days, the container being put where the temperature will run 60 degrees F. or above. To give satisfactory results in the field the test of the seed should show a germination per cent of at least 90. One may save much time and annoyance and often avoid the danger of losing a crop of onions in the fall by testing the black seed onions in the same way. This is particularly true if the seed has been held over from the preceding year or has been bought at a bargain counter price of some cheap John seed house.

In the Waiting Room

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

A woman arrived the other forenoon from the east with seven children in tow, and almost the same hour a man reached the same depot from the north with five offspring of various ages and sizes. She was a widow and he a widower, and the children had not been whipped more than once around before there was a sort of mutual sympathy that begot admiration and then friendship. One of the widow's boys offered one of the widower's girls a bite of his fried cake, which was accepted in the spirit tendered, and a ten-year-old girl belonging to the man made up to the two-year-old belonging to the woman.

The widower smiled as he saw these things and presently winked at the depot policeman, who was strolling around and took him aside to say: "Them children seem to take to each other?" "Yes."

"I reckon that gal's mother is a wider woman?" "Shouldn't wonder."

"And with seven young uns to care for she'd be willin' to marry again?" "I should say so. Widower, ain't you?" "I am, and these are my five innocents, as you might call 'em."

"Seven and five are twelve," mused the officer as he looked over at the widow.

"She used to be when I went to school." "Well?"

"If there's no law agin it I'm goin' over and ask that woman if I'm the man to make her heart palpitate."

"No law at all. Go right ahead. We aim to please our patrons."

The man drew a long breath, braced up and sauntered over to the woman and asked:

"Madam, am I wrong in believin' that you are a widow?"

"I have been a widow fourteen months today," she answered.

"Great Scott! But it's just fourteen months today since my Hanner died. Which way be you goin'?"

"To Hanover."

"That's just where I am goin' too. Did you promise your husband never to marry again?"

"No."

"And I didn't promise my wife either. Fact is, I believe I shall unite as soon as I find some good woman."

"And my children need a father's care," she sighed as she pulled little John Henry off the window sill and bumped him into a seat.

The man got up and walked around the waiting room and took a closer look at the children. Then he returned and said:

"I suppose you've got a few hundred dollars, belong to some church, can wash and bake and mend and are of a mild and forgivin' disposition?"

"Yes, that's me."

"Well, I'm kinder religious, even tempered and am worth $2,000. I'm sort o' struck on you. There's somethin' about your eyes that reminds me of Hanner."

"And you look like Alonzo around the mouth," she sighed.

"Sure your Alonzo is dead, are you?" queried the man after getting a drink of water for one of her children.

"Oh, my, yes! And how about your departed?"

"Safe as a wood-huck in his hole. Good woman she was, but she will have to stay right where she is."

Then he bent over and whispered something about Chicago and getting married and she nodded her head. He gathered his children under his wing and took them into a corner and solemnly and impressively observed:

"Children, I'm goin' to get married to that woman over there and give on a new mother. If any of you is out to kick and boohoo about it be in now, so that I can take you down afore the train goes. Henry, you are the oldest. Are you goin' to declare you'll run away or commit suicide? Let me know right now, for this is a good, cool place to prance you around with a shingle."

Henry said he guessed it would be all right, and the rest of the crowd seemed to agree, and ten minutes later he and widow sat holding hands and trying to eat peanuts, and the twelve children were biting and pulling hair and kicking to see who should have a seat on the steam heater.

"This is kinder the work of heaven," chuckled the widower as he hitched a little nearer.

"You bet, love," she replied as she bucked another peanut with her teeth.

By and by the officer, who had watched the progress of events from a distance, walked over to the couple and smilingly queried:

"Well, is it all settled?" "As solid as a rock," replied the man.

"Yes, I love him," added the woman. "Then you'll get along all right."

"Sure to—sure to," said the man as his right arm stole around the woman's shoulders. "It's a case of love in five minutes and twelve children back of it, and that's a combination hard to beat. How about the train?"

"Ten minutes yet."

"Then I'll spank the children all around and prepare to go into details with the bride to be as we rush across the country toward joy unconfined."

Runk and Peckman's Realty Report

Why put your money in the bank where it yields but 3-1-2 per cent., when you can purchase Gettysburg Real Estate that will yield 5 to 8 per cent. and increase in value at the same time? Real estate in a thriving town is the safest investment on earth. Gettysburg does not have homes enough to accommodate her own people.
